THREE MAN BOARD

County Supervisors Form Building Authority Corp.

Last week, the Crawford County Board of Supervisors took the first step to form a Building Authority of Crawford County. The legal notice which reveals the articles of incorporation are carried in this week's Avalanche on page seven.

The authority will be vested with the power to issue bonds and to carry out a building program for Crawford County. Specifically mentioned is a new Court House, new County Jail and parking lot.

The Authority will also have full power to equip, furnish and own such structures and lease them to the County of Crawford with the lease charges going to retire the bonds. Upon the bonds all maturing and being paid off, the buildings would then be returned to county ownership.

The authority shall be directed and governed by a Board of Commissioners of three members. They must be residents of Crawford County and shall be appointed by the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Crawford County.

Members of the Board will be appointed for six year terms and their compensation will be fixed by the Supervisors. One member will act as chairman, another as secretary and the third as treasurer.

The articles of incorporation were adopted by the Board of Supervisors with a majority voting affirmative at a meeting on February 8.

The articles were then signed and sealed in the presence of a notary public by Supervisor's Chairman William T. Miller and County Clerk Leo E. Lovely.

CMU AGENCY FOR NORCAP PROGRAM

Mt. Pleasant — Central Michigan University's Public Services division takes on a new dimension with the designation of CMU as the program planning-coordinating agency for the 33-county region of the Northern Michigan Community Action Program (NORCAP).

The university, through Public Services, will be responsible for directing the program planning and coordinating programs, under the Economic Opportunity Act, appropriate to the counties and communities of the region. Acting director of the Economic Opportunity Act for the 33 counties is Charles B. Park, director of Special Studies at CMU.

PARK SAYS, "We have been operating on the off-campus-field services-public services basis for years; these counties fall within the area we serve, and we know the counties and the people in them. We are also aware that because of the low density of population in this area, leadership would not be equally distributed. This might mean that there would be little participation in the provisions of the Act.

"The money available would be distributed on a formula which considers population and certain conditions known from census. A county receiving a small total couldn't do anything significant with it. So we felt that by providing leadership, arranging counties into groups called clusters with similar problems, we might help them develop programs for community action. Then by pooling money and resources we might be able to do something significant."

IN ILLUSTRATION of the kind of community action program made possible by the cluster arrangement, Park cited the possibility of an adult literacy problem. Probably, he said, no individual county would have the means adequately to cope with the problem by itself, but in the cluster arrangement a proposal might be prepared to provide for buping illiterate adults of several counties together to a common instruction center on a scheduled basis. In this way, he said, "You could probably solve the literacy problem of all the counties involved, where you couldn't in one county."

We've Topped It Off

Have you noticed? Drive by your new library building and see the progress being made since that carload of material arrived here from Oregon.

Dr. Paul Dosch, President of the Library Board, informs us that $4,601 was spent during the month of January and about $6,000 remains in the building fund.

THE FRIENDS of the Library pleased with and gratified for the response given to the building fund deficit. They have been notified that a donation of $100 was received from David M. Whitney fund. Mrs. D. E. Henig is receiving all donations and Mrs. Harry Souder all memorial funds.

Every worthwhile institution began with a need, a vision turned into reality by those people alive, responsible and innovative. Won't you join your Friends of the Library?

Meeting Will Seek Airport Civilian Use

Grayling Planning Commission chairman Arnold Mauren accompanied by Dr. J. F. Cook, Grayling mayor and Robert Strong also of Grayling and both Planning Commission members went to Lansing last week to meet with both federal and state aviation authorities on ways to accomplish civilian use of the Grayling McNamara Air Base.

The meeting was held in the office of Enoch W. Anderson, district airport engineer of the Federal Aviation Agency. Also in attendance were Wm. E. Hamlen of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics and Lloyd A. Smith of the FAA.

After an exhaustive study of the many problems involved, it was decided to plan a meeting in Grayling in the near future with personnel of the Federal Aviation Agency, Michigan National Guard and the Army Corps of Engineers in attendance. This session would also be open to the entire membership of the Planning Commission, members of the Grayling City Council and members of the Crawford County Board of Supervisors and other interested citizens.

Grayling Queen Wins Title

THE QUEEN IS CROWNED — Al Nagler, television and radio personality of Detroit, right, places the crown on the head of Lauri Olson of Grayling officially making her Miss Michigan Winter Sports Queen during the 40th Annual Grayling Winter Sports Carnival held last weekend.

At the left is Miss Linda Hale of Boyne City who was declared first runnerup in the contest and who only the week before had won the title of Miss Michigan Winter Queen at the Petoskey Winter Sports Festival.

For only the fourth time in the history of the contest, a Miss Grayling was named as Miss Michigan Winter Sports Queen during the 40th Annual Grayling Winter Sports Carnival held last weekend.

A vibrant, five foot, seven inch brunette, Lauri Olson, Grayling High School senior, who had earlier won the battle of Miss Grayling 1965, was selected by out-of-town judges for this year's Miss Michigan crown. Lauri is the daughter of Mrs. Anne Olson and Nels Olson, both of Grayling. Named as the first runnerup was Linda Hale, a 17-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Boyne City.

The other three Miss Graylings who went on to become Miss Michigan Winter Sports were the former Rose Bishaw, Phyllis Goss and Marjorie Wolf. This year's Queen won the title over 15 other Queens from Michigan communities and ski centers.

Another highlight of the festival was the running of two cross country ski races under the supervision of the Central United States Ski Association. One was the duplicate of the race carried out last year for men, the other was the first cross country ski race ever held in the United States for women. Vojta Baie, Grand Rapids, Nordic committee chairman for USSA-CD laid out the race courses and handled all details of the races.

Colorful ceremonies Sunday at Grayling Winter Sports Park held in sparkling weather carried out the coronation ceremony for the new queen. The new Michigan Winter reigning monarch is 18 years, old and hopes to attend Michigan State University this fall, with an eye on a teaching career following her graduation from Grayling High.

Al Nagler, a Detroit TV personality presided at the crowning. Darlene Owen of Mio, Miss Michigan Winter Sports of 1964 also took part in the ceremony. Johnny Williams, Detroit TV personality, announced the judges' selection at the Queen's Ball near midnight Saturday.

The Queen's selection Saturday took the highlight of this 40th edition of the granddaddy of winter sports events in Michigan.

Earlier in the evening, a Queen's Banquet was held at the Michelson Memorial Church with the Grayling Woman's Club serving a delicious meal. Mr. Williams master of ceremonies the program following after an introduction by Mrs. Walter Truetter.

Sunday got off with a Queen's Breakfast at the Lone Pine Inn followed by a parade from Grayling to the park for the special program climaxed by the coronation. Skating, skiing and tobogganing exhibitions and races rounded out the program.

The new Miss Michigan Winter Sports Queen was at Petoskey week end before last to take part in that city's winter festival. Lauri and her mother spent from Friday night to Sunday there, where the title of Miss Michigan Winter Queen was given to Linda Hale, Miss Boyne City.

A weary but satisfied group of chairmen, co-chairmen and workers were glad to see Sunday evening arrive but could feel a thrill of pride also for the fine carrying out of all of the varied items of the program for the 40th Annual Grayling Winter Sports Carnival.

Rites Read for Earl W. Dawson, Business Leader

Earl Walter Dawson, 77, for forty-six years one of Grayling's well-known citizens, passed away Sunday, February 14, 1965 at Mercy Hospital. Funeral services were to be held Wednesday at two o'clock at the Michelson Memorial Methodist church, with the Rev. Harris Jespersen officiating. Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery with Emil Giegling, Holger Hanson, T. P. Peterson, Jack Alef, Earl Burns and Robert Strong serving as pallbearers.

Earl Dawson was born September 5, 1887 at Postoria, Michigan. He came to Grayling in 1909 where he owned and operated a restaurant with his sister Mabel for several years. In October of 1922 Mr. Dawson went to work for the A & P Company, was transferred to Traverse City for a year and a half, then returned to Grayling in 1924, remaining here as store manager until his retirement in 1952.

In 1938 Mr. Dawson bought the Chris Olsen drug store, remodeled and renamed it Dawson's store, and installed his son Devere as manager. After his retirement from the A & P chain, Mr. Dawson was active in Dawson's until he suffered a fall there in December of 1961 and was hospitalized for about a year. He was able to return to his home in September of 1962, but never completely recovered his health after his fall. He was taken to the hospital last Friday and passed away on Sunday.

Mr. Dawson was married September 4, 1912 to the former Clara A. Peterson, who came to Grayling from Lewiston with her family in 1905. She survives him, as do their children, Devere of Grayling, Norman of Lexington and Richard of Jackson, and one daughter, Mrs. Vivian Dunham of Lansing, twelve grandchildren and three great grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Blanche Edling, and a brother, Mark Dawson, both of Detroit. Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Foundation.

Correction

In two different places in the story in last week's Avalanche concerning the gift of a steam whistle to the U. S. Plywood plant at Grayling from the community of Grayling, Fred Welsh was referred to as former President of the Salling-Hanson Company. Mr. Welsh states that he never was in the employ of the company but the reference to him as former president of the Kerry-Hanson Company was correct. The story was written by Neil Hercules of the plywood company and former editor of the Otsego County Herald Times of Gaylord.

Look For More Changes . . .

Whatever one may personally think of the act, Secretary of Defense McNamara's decision to eliminate the Army Reserve and to reorganize the National Guard took a good deal of political courage. Both these institutions leave a venerable and honored place in American history and tradition. And both have dedicated friends in high places to whom the new policy — even though a part of the Reserve is to be merged with the Guard — is anathema.

So fireworks are certain to be exploded in Congress and elsewhere. That happened not long ago when the Secretary ordered the closing of a considerable number of military bases and yards which he regarded as obsolete and wasteful. This base closing, in Joseph Alsop's words, "... caused three-quarters of the members of the U. S. Senate to begin looking for easy ways to stick a knife in the back of the Secretary of Defense." The Reserve-Guard matter is creating much more dissension. It also brings up a legal question which will have to be resolved. That question has to do with whether or not the Secretary can so act without the consent of Congress. Apparently Mr. McNamara regards it as an administrative matter which does not call for congressional action. Numbers of members of Congress take another view. Then, beyond that, Congress, through its power of the purse, has in effect a veto authority over any action of this nature. However, the probability is that the Secretary will have his way in the long run. It is certain that he has the President's full approval.

In any event, this is indicative of the sweeping changes that have taken place in thinking of many men, within and without the uniformed forces, who must deal with military problems and possibilities. When World War II ended, we reverted to the prewar system of defense so far as the services were concerned, although, of course, the regular forces were maintained at much greater size than in previous peacetime eras. The principal emphasis was laid on nuclear power — the great deterrent — of which we then possessed a monopoly. It was often argued that conventional arms and military organizations were a thing of the past.

The bitter Korean War changed that thinking — as in all history most of the fighting had to be done by the foot soldier. The weapons employed, and the tactics, were basically those of the two world wars. And, of vital importance in military planning, our monopoly of nuclear power was swiftly lost. We and the Soviets reached an impasse in which each possessed a nuclear arsenal, in all its varied types, capable of world destruction.

Then another enormously important change in the art of war took place. Viet Nam is a classic example. Modern war, of this kind, is essentially a series of guerrilla actions. Conventionally organized forces and traditional tactics have demonstrated a frustrating inability to deal with it. New methods, based on new and very different concepts, must be devised.

Mr. McNamara's stated purpose is "to improve significantly the early deployment capability and combat readiness . . ." of the Reserve forces involved in his order. More profound changes in our overall military establishment can be expected.

More Women Taking Test To Guard Against Cancer

This year some 14,000 American women will die of cancer of the uterus, or womb. But if every adult woman would have the "Pap" test as part of the annual check-up, uterine cancer might almost be wiped out as a cause of death.

The Pap smear test is so simple it can be done in the doctor's office in a few minutes, and without pain. A study of the cast-off cells in the uterine sampling can detect cancer before symptoms appear, when the disease is most curable.

A recent study for the American Cancer Society by the Gallup Organization shows an impressive increase in the number of women who have had Pap tests for uterine cancer. Early in 1961 only 30 per cent of women queried had had the Pap test; in 1963, the percentage rose to 48 per cent, or nearly one out of every two women.

Could Cure More

Dr. Harold S. Diehl, Vice President for Research and Medical Affairs of the American Cancer Society, said, "The new poll shows an important increase in the use of the valuable Pap test. But we cannot be satisfied with this. If people would understand that cancer is among the most curable of the major diseases — that there are, in fact, more than 1,300,000 living Americans who once had cancer and were cured — and that we are not curing as many cases as are potentially curable, than, I believe, all of us would want to have life-saving detection procedures annually. When that happens, we know we can cure at least one in two cases of cancer with present knowledge."

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

WHAT DOES IT ALL ADD UP TO?

In the well-known city where this young fellow is growing up crime has shown a steady increase for more than a decade. And many of the convicted offenders aren't old enough to vote. Rough-looking "kids" loiter on the street corners with nothing to do. Smooth-looking "kids" flash by in cars with no place to go. The police patrol certain beats with dogs — humanity alone cannot cope with the situation.

But this young fellow must grow up nevertheless. And for him... for the community... for the nation... tomorrow depends on how he grows up!

It all adds up to the most crying need of our time: early, continuing, determined moral and religious instruction. It demands spiritual awareness in our homes. It requires resolute, sacrificial support of our churches. In every city, village and hamlet an awakened nation is mustering its total spiritual resources... seeking God's help... and seeking yours...

School Ski Team Results

By Rhea Stripe

On February 3, 1965, the Grayling High School Ski Team traveled to Caberfae at Cadillac for a three-way ski meet with Cadillac and Grayling. It was a very disappointing day as both the girls and the boys teams took third places. The total time of the boys was 350.3 sec. and that of the girls was 282.6 sec.

For our boys, Mickey Stillwagon was first in the slalom with a combined time for the two runs of 46.0 sec. John Cook led our boys with 17.4 seconds in the giant slalom, with Mickey right behind him with 18.0 sec.

Jody Wyman took first place in the slalom event, and first for the Grayling girls with 54.6 sec. Rhea Stripe led the Grayling girls with 22.0 sec. in the giant slalom.

Caberfae is a very beautiful ski area covering a large land area and having many fine slopes. The three ski teams raced a little way from the main lodge, though, not on the slopes which are used by the paying guests.

Our ski meet against Gaylord and Atlanta at Sheridan Valley, scheduled for February 11 was canceled on account of adverse weather, and our next meet will be on Wed., Feb. 17, against Cheboygan and Petoskey at Thunder Mt.
